

Fiery Exchange Results In Bank Robbery Arrests

By Robert E. Finneran
Editor

A bank robbery in Shawsheen which netted robbers about $300 Friday night has resulted in one suspect under police guard at Massachusetts General Hospital suffering from gunshot wounds.

Warrants have been obtained for the arrest of a second man believed involved in the holdup, and police are continuing their investigation of the possibility of a third person being involved.

Under police guard at the Boston hospital is Ronald Doe of Charlestown, where he is in fair condition and under treatment for gunshot wounds suffered at the hands of Andover Reserve Patrolman William MacKenzie who was on guard duty at the Lawrence Savings Bank Friday evening.

MacKenzie exchanged gunfire with the robbers as they fled with the money. About ten shots were exchanged at close range between the robbers. Doe was later driven to the hospital for gunshot wounds of the side and the leg.

Warrants have been obtained for the arrest of John P. Burke, 27, of 2A Dunstable Road, Charlestown, who is to be charged with armed robbery and assault to murder Patrolman MacKenzie.

State Police Lt. Alfred Duemling, assigned to the district attorney's office, said the investigation is continuing to determine if a third person is involved in the robbery, based on the possibility of driving a getaway car.

The robbery took place shortly before 6 p.m. Friday when two men were observed putting on ski masks in the bank parking lot off Poore Street.

They entered the bank, apparently not noticing MacKenzie on duty. One man leaped over the counter while the other remained guarding the door.

MacKenzie drew a bead on both men, but did not shoot because of the presence of customers and tellers on duty.

The Andover patrolman, crouched behind a post in the bank ordered the two to halt, after one had jumped back over the counter.

The gunfire then began. As one fled, the other remained exchanging shots with MacKenzie within a two to three foot range, crawling on hands and knees around the post.

When both robbers fled, MacKenzie followed, after having hit one. A final shot whistled by the patrolman's head as he was reloading his revolver.

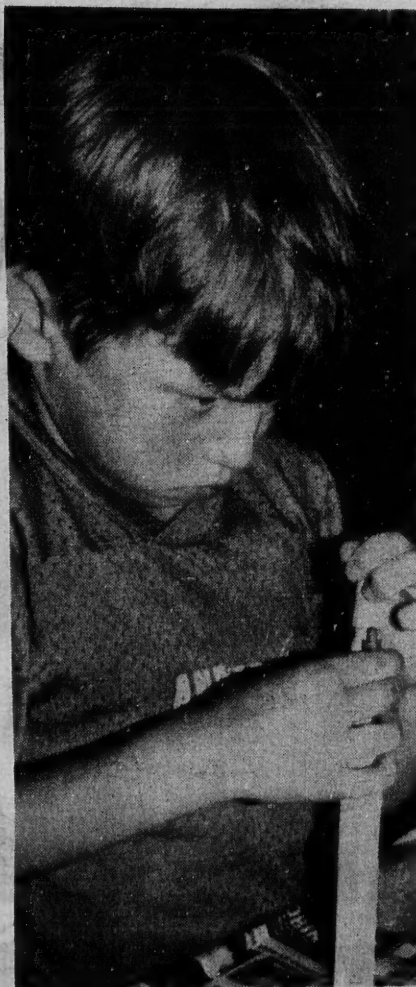

The pair sped off on Poore Street in a car later determined to have been stolen, and found abandoned on Corbett Street, near the bridge that spans Route 495. They are believed to have taken off on Route 495 in another car, either left by them or driven by someone waiting, a matter investigators are attempting to determine.

Doe entered Massachusetts General Hospital late Friday night with two gunshot wounds, one having entered his side and exited through his hip on the opposite side. Another wound was in the leg, according to the office of District Attorney Kevin M. Burke.

Complaints against both Doe and John Burke were obtained at Lawrence District Court Monday afternoon. Doe was placed under arrest at the hospital and placed under police guard.

Tenant Reaction Is Mixed On Condo Conversion

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The reactions of tenants asked to vacate the Andover Garden Apartments off Haverhill Street to make way for condominium buyers have included "desperation and heartsickness," according to one tenant.

But at least one elderly tenant says she is not angry about the current conversion of the 138-unit apartment complex into $33,500 to $47,500 condominiums. "It's just business," she explains. "I can understand that."

Andover Gardens Investors Trust, Boston, owner of the complex, notified tenants of the conversion on April 1, says tenant Ruth Ford of 10 Longwood Drive.

Tenants of basement apartments have been offered $5,000 discounts if they choose to buy their apartments Ford says, while tenants of upstairs apartments have been offered $3,500 discounts.

In addition, tenants have been offered their choice of new kitchen appliances or new wall-to-wall carpeting if they choose to purchase their apartments, says tenant Patricia Ford of 9 Longwood Drive, Ruth Ford's sister-in-law.

But more than 50 residents of the complex have already moved out, Ruth Ford says, and more will follow in the weeks ahead. Only four of the 12 apartments in her building are still occupied, she says.

Tenants' leases are being honored, but if the apartment of a tenant without a lease is sold to a condominium-buyer, the tenant is served a 30-day eviction notice by a sheriff, Patricia Ford says.

"The management wants to know months before your lease expires whether you are going to buy or not," she says. "I had to notify them within six to eight weeks." Her lease expires in October.

"And the minute you say no, you're not going to buy, the pressure is on to get out," Ruth Ford adds.

One 84-year-old tenant feels she should have been given more notice of the conversion, she says. Although she now plans to move into a smaller North Andover apartment, it was difficult for her to find a new place to live, she explains. "Places are very scarce now."

Karen Herland of 11 Crescent Drive, also Ruth Ford's sister-in-law, says her lease expires this month, and she has received letters from the management "telling me to hurry up and get out." Herland has purchased a house in Salem,

Guarded Approval For Plan

A regional project that will open up new access to the Merrimack River watershed for "casual recreation" with federal grants won the selectmen's guarded approval Monday night.

While the selectmen voted in favor of the access project by a three to one vote, Selectman Susan Poore cast her yes vote "with reservations."

"Access to the watershed is a double-edged sword," Poore said. "I wonder if we are really protecting our watershed if we are opening it up to total access?"

Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark noted that the project will open up only some access, not total access, and "may lead to better control" of access to the watershed.

Poore also objected to the lack of formal representation for Andover on the project's administration, which has been awarded two $15,000 federal grants.

Selectman Edward Harris, voting against approving the project, said he believed it could be "a waste of money."

Manager's Salary Approved

An annual salary of $37,781.70 for the town manager, with a monthly car allowance of $110, was approved by the selectmen Monday night. The salary for Manager Jared S. A. Clark is for Fiscal year 1981, which began July 1.

Licenses, Permits Granted

The selectmen approved the following licenses and permits during their Monday night meeting:

Mass. Electric Co. and New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. were granted permission to relocate one pole, with wires and fixtures, on Sunset Rock Road. Mass. Electric was also granted permission to lay and maintain underground conduits under Lowell Street, to serve a 53-lot subdivision.

Bay State Gas Co. was granted permission to excavate into Lowell Street at 1 Knob Hill Circle, into Porter Road at 1 Karlton Circle, and into Corbett Street to install new gas services.

And auctioneer Herman Hurwitz of Newton was granted a one-day auctioneer's license for the sale of oriental rugs at Sheraton-Rolling Green from 7 p.m. to midnight July 26.

Town Wins Litigation

A suit brought against the town by a former probationary firefighter in 1976 was finally settled in favor of the town last week, saving the town a $108,000 settlement, the town manager reported to the selectmen Monday night.

Probationary firefighter who was discharged by Fire Chief Hilton in 1972, brought a suit of discrimination against the town in 1976, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said.

That suit was settled in the town's favor, with the town represented by town counsel Al Daniels. However, a further suit for back wages and reinstatement of the employee was brought before Superior Court.

With Daniels representing the town, Superior Court found in favor of the town, Clark said. The former employee will receive no settlement, which could have amounted to $108,000 in back wages, the manager said.

Essex Street Parcel To Be Auctioned

A small parcel of town-owned land off Essex Street will be sold at public auction with a minimum bid price set at $24,000, the selectmen voted Monday night.

Selectmen Chairman James Abramson has expressed an interest in buying the land to expand his business, Capital Distributing. Industries in the adjoining Dundee Industrial Park are also considering their possible interest in bidding for the land at this time.

The auction has been scheduled for July 31.

GCA To Monitor Love Canal

GCA Corporation announced today that it will receive $5,400,000 to act as prime contractor for the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency in an extensive integrated monitoring program at the Love Canal near Niagara Falls, New York, to determine the levels of pollution in the soil, air and water.

As prime contractor, GCA Corporation will manage the overall program, obtain the services of subcontractors and deliver to EPA appropriate data for evaluation to determine the extent of the risk caused by the substances found during monitoring.

The area in the vicinity of Love Canal has been declared a Federal Emergency Area, and the EPA has been delegated to conduct an environmental monitoring program at the Love Canal to determine the levels of pollution in the soil, air and water.

The environmental monitoring project will probably be the most extensive such monitoring project ever conducted in the United States.

GCA Corporation is a publicly-held company with headquarters in Bedford, and facilities in Massachusetts, Chicago, Illinois, and Sunnyvale, California.

The environmental program will be carried out by GCA's Technology Division which has for many years performed complex, environmentally-related research and engineering services for a diverse list of customers throughout the country, including the EPA, municipalities, utilities and private companies.

Sanborn Pre-School

"Superman" a pretty witch, and pint-sized cowboys paraded through Sanborn School last week. They were among the 35 costumed Sanborn pre-schoolers who celebrated a Summer Halloween day. Amanda Abell was the witch, Eric Burt a mouse, Brian Hussey: superman, Andy DeBenedictis, dracula, Julie Gawlik a monster, Johnny Leonard, a cowboy. The pre-schoolers paraded before the older children to show off their costumes. The children have delighted in playing games with a full-sized parachute. Friday, they took a field trip to the Andover Public Library where they saw a movie and had a tour. When they returned to Sanborn, their parents joined them for a picnic.

West Pre-School

West Pre-School Playground ended their first session of playground on Friday, July 18, 1980 with an Ice Cream Smorgasbord and family day games at the school. Over 50 people enjoyed the activities which consisted of relays, parachute games, and balloon breaking contests.

Shawsheen

Monday was a glorious day to start the fourth week of playground. "Vampire" got everyone's blood flowing: Paul Bellavance, Ann Marie Charland, and Holly Parker stealthy stalked their victims.

Penny Starks led us on a "Trust Walk" through the neighborhood. "Spudinski" was next on the agenda; cars, numbers, horses, streets and colors were some of the favorite categories. As the noon sun began to get hotter, we moved inside to work with stickers to make posters. "4-square" was the favorite pastime of the day keeping two courts used most of the day. Tuesday was another day involving "4-square" but new rules were incorporated into the game such as basketballs, bozos, teanytinies and no-chicken-legs or chicken-feet. Even teams were picked for "Capture the Flag". Chris Foltz, Chris Scanlon and Joey Cormier all expended a great deal of effort searching for the flags hidden up in poles and trees. Janice Moody had a quiet time reading Dennis the Menace cartoons to the children not interested in "Capture the Flag." The big hit of the day was estate Christmas Tree made with ice cream cones covered with frosting and gum drops; Elizabeth Carew, Sara Walker, and Joey Cormier created the most interesting ones. Part of playground population went on a field trip to George's Island in Boston Harbor while the people that remained at Shawsheen enjoyed quiet games necessitated by the heat of the day. We made a banner reading "Shawsheen" for Peanut Carnival, July 23rd. A wonderful "N" was made by Anna O'Day, and a fantastic "A" was created by Kristen Caranci. After clean up, we played a tag game of "Stick in the Mud." Peter, Alison, and Julie Misenti played a good game. We were very hot and tired, so we went inside to play a game of "Dead Dog." The kids loved it while Dave Robinson was the best at resting. Lori Skinder learned how to play a new game with the help of the Misenti kids. "Medic" and "Prisoner Ball" began the day Thursday setting a record: Mike Romano was hit out for the first time in two and one-half summers. Color was everywhere after we made hand and foot prints with paint; more paint went on faces, arms, legs and between toes than the paint that reached the paper. Gail Grasso has webbed hand-prints, while Monica Dugal has a hole in her left-hand print. We also want Lisa McConkey to know we'll miss her.

West Elementary

On the week of July 14-18, the children on the West Elementary Playground enjoyed a wide range of activities. Monday, we made tissue flowers for a future talent day for the elderly. Various games, such as kick-ball and wiffle-ball were also played. Tuesday, we broke out the game of Jokari for the children. We all enjoyed ourselves. Name tags were then made for the children who were planning to go on the Boston Harbor cruise. "4-Square" was also played, which is a very popular game on our playground. Finally, Brian Bedell, our playground aide, led an involved game of Simon Says. Wednesday was the day of the Boston Harbor cruise to George's Island. For the children that went on this cruise, they had a fantastic time. The children that didn't go on this cruise made plaster of paris paper weights and painted designs on them. On Thursday, the game of Jokari was again brought out for all to enjoy. During the course of the day, the children made fans out of construction paper, and designed them with crayons to cool themselves down from the extreme heat. During a rain shower, we all had fun playing crab soccer in the West Gymnasium. Friday, we held a giant sub day. Everyone brought their own cold cuts and fillers and we made a giant sub. We all had fun.

Sanborn

Week number four at Sanborn Playground was a very hot one, so we tried to keep cool with a lot of quiet games. Monday, we played Statues. Some participants were Jacob Wark, Kristyn Burtt, and Nick Lembo. We also made tissue paper flowers. Lisa Holgern, Dana Driben, Maria Dukas, and Todd Blaustein enjoyed this all-time favorite craft idea. Tuesday, we played Red Rover, Soccer, and Kick-the-can. Grasshead people were the craft for the day. Some of our more crafty playgrounders were Scott DeRosa, Colleen Shepard, Jennifer Anderson, and Ryan Walshe. Wednesday was our first fieldtrip, and it was a great one. We took forty-six playgrounders on a Boston Harbor Cruise and trip to George's Island. The sea breeze on the boat was a refreshing way to beat the heat. All who went on this trip had an excellent time. Thursday, Sue and Patty brought twenty-five playgrounders from South for a visit. The highlight of the day was a bombardment game with Sanborn vs. South. We also had ting on paper, we all managed to decorate ourselves too. Some of our better artists were: Anne Murane, Angie and Kathy Guilani. Drama also seemed to be successful on Monday. On Tuesday, we began to prepare for the Peanut Carnival that will be taking place next Wednesday. To top the day off, the cooking teacher joined us and taught the children how to make butter. Our many fantastic chefs were: Lisa and Rejji Hayes, Shanan and Shawn Cassidy, and Leana Mills. Wednesday was a big day for all of Andover's playgrounds — a field trip to George's Island. To beat the heat, the Ballardvale children dipped their feet into the Boston Harbor. Thursday's strawberry picking was a real fiasco, due to the small problem that there wasn't any strawberries to pick. We ended the week with a Birthday party for Amy Smith, and our weekly cook-out.

Textile Workers Reunion Planned

The afternoon of Aug. 10 will be an enjoyable one for former textile workers of the Merrimack Valley. That's the day that people who worked in the mills are invited to socialize with old friends and family at the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum's Machinery Hall, located at 500 Osgood

St., North Andover, houses one of America's largest tool and textile machinery collections. Between 2 and 5 on the day of the reunion workers will once again be able to mingle among the carding machines, looms, mule and ring spinners they once worked. Some textile company memorabilia will also be on display for people to enjoy.

According to M.V.T.M. intern Sarah Nordgren, "We hope to have the widest turnout possible. Workers from all the mills — the Pacific, Arlington, Stevens, American Woolen and any others are most welcome. This will be a chance for people to chat with former co-workers and to take a close look at the museum's fine collection of textile machinery."

Light refreshments will be served. For information or to arrange transportation to the reunion contact the museum.

Dividend Decreased

The board of directors of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. voted to reduce the quarterly dividend to 12 cents per share from the 18½ cents which had been paid quarterly for the past several years. The dividend is payable Aug. 15, 1980 to shareholders of record July 31.

The company indicated that the action was a part of a general program of capital conservation.

Comedy Feature At Brooks

The Theatre at Brooks (TAB) third summer offering is A Night Of Comedy, a collection of three hilarious one act plays that promises adult entertainment.

Noon, by Terrence McNally, is about five people answering a personal ad in the newspaper for sexual excitement. The theme is risqué, but the humor and story line are in good taste. Noon creates the fantasy without crossing the line into bar-room humor. It has won many awards as an adult one act comedy, Jay Penneck and Barry Low, recently completing the run of Onions star as Kerry and Asher. Anne Vitti and Anita Cali, Boston talent, portray Allegra and Beryl and Jack Flynn rounds out the cast of Cecil.

The second one act to be presented is Johnny And Wilma, the second act of Lovers And Other Strangers. Gene Boles, theatre manager for T.A.B. portrays Johnny and Fran Fortune, last year's Stella in Street Car Named Desire plays Wilma. This husband and wife team battles for "the Boss" position in their marriage.

I'm Herbert, the third and final offering of the evening will re-unite Dick Seguin and Pam Palmer on stage, T.A.B. audiences will remember Dick in such shows as Lion In Winter and Sunshine Boys. I'm Herbert is an hilarious one act about aging romantics, who can only sit and dream of what will be.

The three one acts carry the basic theme of love and sex in each phase of adult life. A Night Of Comedy is being directed by Frances Richard, T.A.B. audiences will remember her as Blanche in Street Car Named Desire, and Veronica's Room.

Reservations can be made by calling the box-office between 3-9 p.m.

A Night Of Comedy opens July 24, with a champagne reception following the play and will continue July 25, 26, July 31 and Aug. 1 and 2. Curtain time is 8:30. Groups rates are available.

Lecture

On Wednesday, July 30 at 5 p.m., noted author Joseph E. Garland will deliver a slide-illustrated lecture entitled, "Sabbatic Summers on the North Shore in the Days of Yore: 1823-1890." The program will take place in the main auditorium of Salem's Essex Institute, 132 Essex Street. Featured will be slides of historic photographs and other visual materials, many of which are part of the Essex Institute's library collections. A reception will follow Mr. Garland's talk. The general public is welcome to attend.

A resident of Eastern Point, Gloucester, Garland has long held an interest in the social history of Boston's North Shore, particularly the Cape Ann region. His most recent book, published by Little, Brown and Co., Boston, 1978 is provocatively entitled Boston's North Shore: Being an Account of Life Among the Noteworthy, Fashionable, Wealthy, Eccentric and Ordinary, 1823-1890.

DPW To Examine New Sewer Plan

Public Works will undertake a detailed study of a revised plan for sewerage section one of the 160-acre Andover Country Club subdivision before making a recommendation to the Planning Board, the board learned Tuesday.

Public Works Director Robert McQuade said the new plan, presented by the developer to the planning board Tuesday night, represents "a big change from what was originally contemplated and approved by this board."

The revised plan must be considered in relation to the town's master sewer plan, he said.

Developer Yvon Cormier originally proposed running sewer lines through section one, which is located off Canterbury Street, to serve the 43 homes to be built in that section. The lines would tie into the Lowell Street sewer main.

This plan received planning board approval last year.

Since that approval was granted, however, the developer has acquired a parcel of land across Canterbury Street now called section two.

Arthur Fosse of the engineering firm Dana F. Perkins Associates said Cormier acquired this land because it would allow him to run sewer lines throughout the entire seven-section development, including section one.

The alternative, Fosse said, would be to build a pumping station to serve sections two through seven, while sewerage section one only.

"But we were sternly advised that a pumping station would be fought by the town," Fosse told the planning board. "That is the only reason Mr. Cormier bought section two, and this new design has been proposed to sewer the entire development."

The revised plan for section one now calls for sewer lines to run through section two, rather than section one as originally proposed.

This plan, according to Paul Ferrante of Dana Perkins, will create lower grades throughout the first section, where construction is now underway, and will disturb less land. Approximately 50,000 to 60,000 yards of earth material would be removed under the plan, he said.

McQuade said his department will need more than two weeks to study the proposed plan, because the town must consider the implications of sewerage the entire subdivision, and not just section one.

The town's master sewer plan now calls for improvements to the Lowell Street main, McQuade said, including improved service to Beacon Street, West Elementary School, Juniper Road, and extensions off Chandler Road.

However, if the entire country club subdivision is to be sewerage — and not just the 43 homes in section one — more extensive improvements to the Lowell Street line may be needed, the director said.

Any improvements to town sewer lines undertaken to serve the subdivision would be done at the developer's expense, he said. However, the town would be responsible for maintaining the lines after the subdivision streets are accepted by the town.

"There are a lot of engineering details to be worked out," he explained. "This plan sewers more area and eliminates a pumping station. But it still includes 20-foot deep manholes, and there are some basic design and maintenance problems with that — I get nervous beyond five feet."

The developer would also have to make provisions within the subdivision that would allow the town to improve sewer lines in the area in the future. This would mean using adequately-sized pipelines, McQuade added.

Proposed improvements to the Riverina Road pumping station could also effect the subdivision, the director said. That long-range project, which involves federal funding, is now in the report stage.

McQuade said the Public Works report to the planning board will be ready before the end of August.

He added that the developer is also considering another alternative for sewerage the subdivision, which would require obtaining an easement through town land.

That plan, which was recently presented to the selectmen, calls for running a sewer line through land behind Canterbury Street in the Hussey's Brook area.

"There may or may not be reason to go into town conservation land," McQuade said. "but all bases haven't been touched on that yet."

The planning board will make a decision on Cormier's special permit to cluster on

Aug. 27. That date was extended from Aug. 7 to allow attorneys for the town and the developer to resolve questions on the non-profit corporation that will maintain the golf course as permanent open space, said Director of Community Development and Planning Rhys Kear.

GCA Plans OK

In other business before the planning board Tuesday night, the board approved the landscaping and sign plans of GCA Corp. for its 30-acre site in the West Andover Industrial Park.

However, the board stipulated that abutter Mike Konjoian must be satisfied that the proposed landscaping, worth an estimated $149,000, will serve as an adequate buffer for his neighboring greenhouse.

The blue, white and bronze sign approved by the board will stand six feet high on the front lawn and features the GCA logo.

Signup For Draft Proceeds

Registration by 20-year-old males for the draft was proceeding smoothly at the Andover post office this week, with 55 young men signing up on Monday and a little over half that number on Tuesday.

Postmaster Edward J. Morrissey said that the young men had been coming in throughout the day to fill out the forms and that there had been no protest groups at the main post office building on Main street.

Draft registration began on Monday for 20-year-olds, based on the month of their birth. Those born January through March signed up Monday, April through June on Tuesday, July through September Wednesday and October to December today. Friday is reserved for makeup day for those who could not register earlier.

The registration is simply that. There is presently no draft for military service, but the registration has been approved by Congress in order to have the ability to utilize a draft system should an emergency arise.

Query Form Approved

A questionnaire dealing with the town's land use policies has been approved by the selectmen and will be distributed to members of town boards, commissions, committees and staffers who are concerned with land use planning.

The questionnaires will be completed and returned to the town manager's office during the summer, and used as the basis of discussions among town officials beginning in September.

The selectmen hope the discussions will result in the formulation of an official land use policy for the town, which all town boards and committees could then use as a guideline for decision-making.

The questionnaire, developed by Selectman Susan Poore and Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark, represents an effort to "identify the basic concerns of town officials on a broad range of themes" on land use, Poore said.

The selectman added that she hopes staff members and volunteers on boards and commissions will answer the questionnaire "as openly as they can, and come right to the point, so that we can lay it all out on the table and discuss everybody's major concerns during our group meetings in September."

The town manager said recently he further hopes answers to the questionnaires and the resulting discussions will help resolve problems in the Department of Community Planning and Development, which has suffered from poor communications and personality conflicts in recent months.

New GCA Plant

This aerial view of the new GCA manufacturing plant shows the seven connecting buildings that make up the 300,000 sq. ft. plant, that will open

New GCA Plant Energy-Efficient

GCA Corporation's new $17 million manufacturing plant now being built in the Andover Technical Center is one of the largest one-story buildings in the state, and one of the most energy-efficient, according to statistics released by GCA engineers.

At the 300,000 sq. ft. plant, the manufacturing area alone covers more than six acres of land — that's roughly equivalent in size to six-and-a-half football fields.

Yet, in an average year in Massachusetts, the new plant will use 150,000 fewer gallons of heating oil than if it had been built from standard construction designs.

The new computer-designed building is constructed of energy-efficient, precast concrete panels, each of which is 18 feet high and eight feet wide. The computer was used to determine the most efficient heating and cooling systems for a facility this large.

The 260,000 square feet ground floor manufacturing space — the remaining 40,000 sq. ft. will be used for offices, training facilities and an employee cafeteria — was specifically designed for producing GCA's DSW Wafer Stepper system, an integrated circuit production machine currently in high demand by semiconductor manufacturers.

The DSW Wafer Stepper prints microscopic electronic circuits on silicon wafers for processing into hundreds of integrated circuits. Each system weighs nearly a ton, so production is easier and more efficient with all manufacturing facilities on a single floor.

The ground floor production area is actually divided into seven separate but connecting buildings. This modular design is more attractive than a six-acre square box and allows several parking lots to be landscaped around the building periphery.

Electric Co. Paid Town $313,980

Massachusetts Electric Co., and its affiliate, New England Power Co., paid a property and real estate tax bill of $313,980 this past year, according to Fenton W. Varney, district manager.

The payment to Andover was part of a total property tax bill of $2,021,127 paid to the five communities served by the Merrimack Valley District in the Greater Lawrence area.

Payments to the other communities were: North Andover, $208,356; Lawrence, $1,024,177; Methuen, $403,349 and Boxford, $71,265.

"Massachusetts Electric and New England Power are proud to contribute to the area's economic health while continuing to provide reliable electric service which is essential to the people who live here," said Varney.

Varney also noted that in 1979, Massachusetts Electric and New England Power paid a combined total of $45.9 million to the 204 Massachusetts communities in which they operate.

Massachusetts Electric and New England Power paid taxes on land, buildings and equipment and machinery used for generation, transmission and distribution of electricity. Taxable property includes poles, transformers, substations, wires and street lights.

The new plant was also specially located to make full use of already cleared farmland and preserve as much of the forested section as possible on the 30-acre site in the Andover Technical Center. GCA also plans to develop jogging trails, volleyball and basketball courts for employee use during lunchtime and after-hours.

According to GCA, the new plant is scheduled to be occupied in early 1981 and will employ approximately 1000 people. Nearly half of them are expected to be new employees.

The plant was designed by the architectural firm of Jung/Brannen Associates Inc.

Hydrogen Tank Termed Safe

When the violent thunderstorm of July 11 started a fire at a liquid hydrogen tank on the Shetland properties in Shawsheen village, it also started the neighbors wondering how safe that tank really is.

The closest homes are 455 feet from the tank.

The neighbors' fears were increased when firemen told the residents of 12 nearby homes to "take the children and pets and evacuate," Jim Sellers of 40 York St. told the selectmen Monday night.

But Fire Chief William Downs said the fire was well under control at all times, and that no formal evacuation had been ordered.

In addition, representatives of Union Carbide, which operates the tank for Raytheon, assured the residents that the 9,000 tank is totally safe and could under no circumstances explode.

The residents appeared before the selectmen Monday night to question whether the tank is a danger to their lives and property.

Steve Sidorchuk of Union Carbide said the fire began when a plume of hydrogen gas venting from the tank was ignited by the lightning. At the time the tank was operating "in a safe manner, as it was designed to operate," by venting the gas, he said.

The tank has three safety systems, Sidorchuk said, and could not explode because it is in an open area. Liquid hydrogen must be confined in order to explode, he explained.

Furthermore, the gas burns "straight up" at a very low temperature and dissipates very quickly, Sidorchuk said.

Union Carbide representatives arrived at the scene of the fire within an hour after it was reported to them, Chief Downs said.

The tank was installed 11 years ago in accordance with a series of safety regulations and was submitted to several inspections, Downs told the residents.

Despite the fact that firefighters "in full regalia" knocked on doors of several homes and told the residents to leave, according to John Boyle of 48 York St., the fire chief said Monday no evacuation had been ordered.

"One lieutenant said to one resident that if she had somewhere to go, she might want to go," the fire chief said. "Then someone else decided maybe they should tell other people to leave. But there was no official evacuation — if there had been, I would've had the police there cleaning the place out."

Sellers said the residents were told to leave at 9 p.m., and found the situation "under control" when they returned approximately two and a half hours later.

Union Carbide will install a smaller, 4,500 gallon tank this week to reduce the amount of gas vented in the future, Sidorchuk said. He explained that Raytheon uses less hydrogen since it moved most of its operations to its West Andover plant.

"We have no intention or design to place anything in anyone's backyard that would be dangerous," Sidorchuk said.

Burnout The Problem?

Lack of adequate support from town employees may be leading to "burn out" among Planning Board members, League of Women Voters, Vice President Pam St. John told the selectmen Monday night.

St. John, who said she has been observing the Planning Board for more than two years, said the board has recently lost "five very good individuals with good backgrounds," leaving a "fairly new" four-member board. Paul Teplitz, appointed during 1978, is now the longest-standing member, she said.

There is currently one vacancy on the board, created by the departure of chairman Patricia Curtin, whose term recently expired.

Planning Board members need to be interested in land use, and have "time to commit to this board," St. John said. There are legal ramifications to the board's decisions, and the board is responsible to builders as well as the town in meeting deadlines, she pointed out.

However, board members do not always have the support they should have from town departments such as Community Development and Planning, the Department of Public Works, the town manager's office, and from special consultants, she said.

"The lack of communication and input from the town effects the planning board in their decision making process, St. John said, adding that the board is sometimes forced to make decisions "by default."

When they do not have information on time from town staffers, planning board members are put in an awkward position and may "feel insecure," she said.

St. John said the two-year-old Department of Community Development and Planning has failed to fill the planning board's need for a town support system.

As solutions, St. John said the League of Women Voters proposes the definition of responsibilities of existing boards; the establishment of a liaison between the boards and Community Development; improving the definitions of procedural descriptions for every department involved with the board; and defining Community Development's responsibilities.

The selectmen asked St. John to send her comments to them in writing so that they may consider them.

Sprinklers Fine, But Who Pays?

Should sprinklers be installed in the town's playing fields? Most people involved in the school building project seem to agree that sprinklers are indeed necessary if the fields are to stay in good condition after they are reconstructed as part of the project.

One question still remains, however: Who will foot the bill?

Building committee members have maintained from the start that sprinklers were never included in the $11.72 million bond issue approved by town meeting. That budget, they frequently point out, is "carved in stone."

But the town manager says that it "only makes sense" to include sprinklers in the school building project, "because of the tremendous usage they receive."

The school and school building committees, director of public works and town manager concur with architects from Perley F. Gilbert Associates that reworking the fields at Doherty, East Junior High, West Junior High and the high school will be a waste of money if sprinklers aren't added to maintain them.

However, although sprinklers may be "an important item," they are a low priority when compared to the educational programs to be covered by the building project, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said Friday.

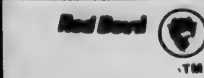

Funding for the sprinklers, therefore, will come out of the building budget only if funds are still available after other aspects of the building program have been carried out, Clark said.

"We don't know yet if there is enough money within the bonding to pay for sprinklers," Clark told the building committee last Thursday night. The architects are now collecting cost estimates on sprinkler systems, he added.

Clark's wait-and-see approach appeared to satisfy the building committee last week. "This committee is not opposed to sprinklers," commented Chairman Kenneth Gropper. "Everyone agrees that the fields have to be watered or we'll end up with dustbowl."

If the building project budget cannot be stretched to include sprinklers, a special article requesting funding for the systems will probably be introduced before town meeting next year, the manager said.

How To Study Course Is Offered

How do you study in college?

That's a question that has posed problems and caused complications for many bright, but unprepared, persons struggling to make the adjustment to the campus experience.

More than 50,000 college-bound high school graduates have gotten the answer to the question, and a head start on their peers, by enrollment in the "How to Study in College" course developed by two Purdue University professors — Robert F. Schwarz and the late H. D. Murdock.

The popular one-week, four-evening course will be offered this summer at the Andover-North Andover YMCA, 165 Haverhill Street, Andover. Ed Neill, program director said the course provides useful, practical answers to such questions as: Where's the best place to sit in a lecture? What's the one technique that will make you the first one to complete laboratory projects? What two simple techniques will almost guarantee one letter grade higher in every course? What one idea can make it possible to study a textbook 24 per cent faster? When is studying with the radio on a good idea? What is the secret to not being uptight during an exam? What is the easy way to write the first draft of a term paper?

Topics in the series of lectures include how students learn, why they forget, the art of listening, how to take usable lecture notes, motivation for maximum performance in college, how to plan study time, a basic study formula, techniques of review, preparing for an taking tests and examinations, how to use a college library.

"How to Study in College" has been offered at YMCA's throughout the United States since 1963.

Graduating seniors or those who already have high school diplomas and are about to enter college may reserve a place in the course and obtain additional information by visiting the YMCA or by contacting Ed Neill at the Y.

The course will be presented from July 28 to July 31. Classes meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. — Monday through Thursday. Registration is limited.

Hunt In Organ Recital

Eileen Hunt will present an organ recital at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall on Wednesday, July 30, at 8:30 p.m.

Her recital, one of the 1980 summer series, consists of: Sonata VI in D minor, op. 65, Choral variations "Vater unser in Himmelreich", Fuge, Finale — Felix Mendelssohn; Passacaille (1944) — Frank Martin; Cortege et Litanie, op. 19, no. 2 — Marcel Dupre; Troisieme Symphonie, op. 28, Allegro Maestoso, Cantilene, Intermezzo, Adagio, Final — Louis Vierne.

Eileen Hunt received her Bachelor of Music and Master of Arts from Boston University where she also held a teaching fellowship in the Musicology department. Her organ studies were with George Faxon and Jack Fisher. Ms. Hunt studied for a year with Andre Isoir in Paris and received a diploma from the Organ Academy at Saint-Maximin in Provence. She has given frequent organ and harpsichord recitals throughout the New England area and in Washington, D. C. She is presently director of music at the Wilton Presbyterian Church in Wilton, Conn.

The Music Hall was erected by Edward F. Searles solely to provide the optimal visual and acoustical setting for the Walcker organ. However, the Hall also contains a very important work of art — a copy of Guido Reini's famous painting, "The Aurora", executed in Carrara marble.

Board Gets Suggestions For Handicapped

THE TOWNSMAN, JULY 24, 1980

Life in Andover would be improved for handicapped residents if the library and town hall were made accessible to them, if curb cuts were added to downtown sidewalks, and if a booklet describing handicapped accessibility of town buildings and businesses were published, the selectmen were told Monday night.

The town manager said that plans are underway for all of those requests with the exception of the booklet, which one selectman termed "an excellent idea."

Sandra Chatauneuf, a member of the School Building Committee resource bank and the mother of a handicapped son, Eddie, appeared before the selectmen to describe the difficulties Andover's 4,000 handicapped and elderly people have in getting around town.

It is impossible for most people in wheelchairs to enter the library, she said, calling reading a pleasure that should not be denied the handicapped.

The parking space reserved for the handicapped at town hall is helpful, Chatauneuf said, but "without a curb cut it is impossible for those in wheelchairs to get up onto the sidewalk."

Curb cuts along Main Street sidewalks would also make it easier for the handicapped to travel about downtown, she added.

Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark told the selectmen that a wheelchair ramp for the library has been designed, and will be put up for bids next month.

Downtown curb cuts, however, are part of the state TOPICS project to improve Main Street from Elm Square to Chestnut Street. That project has been "tied up in the review and approval stage of the Elm Square design," Clark said.

After the town receives state funding approval, construction should begin next summer, the manager said. He added that some curb cuts have already been made this year.

Making town hall accessible is "the next

Homecoming

Organizers of Newburyport's 23rd Annual Yankee Homecoming, July 26-Aug. 3, once again promise a full schedule of activities and fun that each year brings together both local residents and summer tourists to celebrate the city's historic past and colorful present.

This year's theme, announced by Yankee Homecoming Committee Chairwoman Melba Davis, is "Newburyport — A Family Portrait." The city's outstanding citizens of today and yesteryear, as well as many others previously unheralded, will be especially honored.

Because historic buildings are an exciting attraction in Newburyport, Davis explains, the city's people are often overshadowed by the charm of their surroundings.

"This year we would like to recognize the people who built the buildings," Davis says, "as well as those who have recently restored so many of them. We also want to give credit to all those citizens who are helping to keep Newburyport a thriving community today."

project," Clark said, explaining that it would cost approximately $20,000 to add a ramp and make the first-floor bathrooms accessible.

It is also possible, he reminded the selectmen, that all town offices will be moved into the two wings of East Junior High to be abandoned by the schools after Doherty becomes a junior high. In that case, all town offices would be in one place and accessible to the handicapped, Clark said.

He also pointed out that, with the completion of the school building program, plus the recommendations made to the school committee last week for renovations at the elementary schools, the town's schools will all be fully accessible within three to five years.

The selectmen told Chatauneuf they would keep in mind her suggestion to compile a listing of businesses, stores, medical offices and other buildings that are accessible to the handicapped. Newton publishes such a listing and updates it every two years, she said.

Selectman Edward Harris said the suggestion for a booklet was "an excellent idea."

Annual Award To Chorus Members

The historic North Parrish Church on the common in North Andover was the setting for the Treble Chorus final concert of the 1979-80 season. This well-known Unitarian Church has been a major supporter of the North Parrish Choral Society for the past two years. Rev. David Blanchard, minister of the church commenced this unusual service of readings and classical music. The program featured Brahms' "Liebeslieder Waltzes" and the Three Children's Songs of Ralph Vaughn Williams.

Leigh Mitchie accompanied the Treble Chorus which was under the direction of conductor Marie Stultz. Included in the day's festivities were the annual awards presented each year to some of the society's outstanding choristers. This

Vale Youth Report On Trip To Germany

Last Sunday morning six youths reported to the Ballard Vale United Church congregation about their recent three-week trip to Germany.

Kathi Wilson, Lynne-Anne Baker, Jeffrey Todd, Lee Hollenbeck, Jay McLeod, and Kevin Hollenbeck left Logan airport on June 27 with 14 youths from the Old South United Methodist Church of Reading. This was the second half of an exchange program sponsored by the West German government. The youth flew to Frankfurt, then boarded a train to Hanover where they were met by host families. Each youth lived with a family and met with the group each day for a tour. Three days were spent in Berlin, behind the Iron Curtain.

Observations made by the youth included a lack of vandalism, and graffiti, a slower and less frantic pace to life, much use of public transportation and bicycles, and the museums that constantly remind the people of the costs of war. The youth were warmly greeted and were surprised that almost all the German youth spoke at least some English, as five years of English is required in school.

The Ballardvale youth all earned the money to pay their own transportation costs.

At the service Peter Cassell played the piano; the flowers were provided by Mrs. Joyce Robinson; the ushers were Scott Mattheson and Betsy Johnson.

The congregation is reminded of the trip to the Pops Concert at 5:15 on Thursday, July 24. Services will continue at 10 a.m. at the Ballardvale Church until Rally Day on Sept. 7, at which time the congregation will enjoy a picnic at the Rolling Ridge Conference Center in North Andover.

Jenner To Present Recital

The fifth in the current series of six summer carillon recitals on the 37-bell Samuel Lester Fuller carillon in Memorial Tower, Phillips Academy, Andover, will be given on Tuesday evening, July 29, at 7 p.m. The recitalist will be William Jenner of South Braintree.

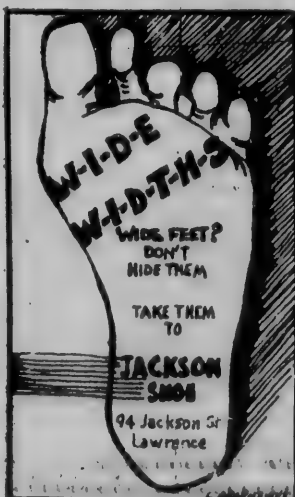

Jenner was born in Canada, where he studied organ with Victor Kerslake. He has taught at the Universities of British Columbia, Michigan, North Carolina, Bucknell and Northwestern. He is presently organist and choirmaster at St. Philip Neri Parish in Waban, and teaches privately in Boston and at Suffolk University. He is a carillon student of Earl Chamberlain at St. Stephen's Church, Cohasset. This is his third appearance at the Andover carillon.

The recital will take place rain or shine, and is free of charge. Bring lawn chairs, blankets and picnic suppers. The best places to listen are at some distance from the tower, away from traffic noise. Locations on the Great Lawn (across Salem Street beyond the wall), near Bulfinch Hall, or near the gymnasium are recommended. Printed programs and descriptive brochures about the carillon are available in the stand at the tower door.

Beerfest

Roll out the barrels and prepare for the 6th Annual Beerfest, sponsored by the Newburyport Maritime Society as part of the Yankee Homecoming festivities. This year the Beerfest will be held on Wednesday, July 30 from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the Custom House Maritime Museum.

Although only six years old, the Beerfest is one of the most popular Homecoming events. Early ticket sales are advised as the Beerfest is usually sold out in advance and no tickets are sold at the door.

Mrs. William L. Wright

Wright - Hillmann

Barbara Hillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas J. Hillman, 13 Strawberry Hill Road, became the bride June 21 of William Lowell Wright, also of Andover. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason C. Wright, 13 Carisbrooke St.

The Rev. Westy Egmont officiated at the 5 o'clock ceremony at South Church, while James Leary provided solo music and Keith Gould was organist.

A reception followed at the North Andover Country Club.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a Priscilla gown of ivory starched chiffon, with bodice of Alencon lace on point d'esprit, fashioned with an open V-neckline and cap sleeves. The skirt was appliqued to match and ended in a chapel train.

Her veil was a cap of Alencon lace, with a cluster of silk flowers in Victorian style holding her long veil of ivory illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of cymbidium orchids, bridal pink roses and white freesia.

Joyce Hillmann of Northampton attended her sister as maid of honor, while bridesmaids included another sister, Susan Hillmann of Andover, the groom's sister, Mrs. Daniel Knowlson of Metairie, La., Wendy Macduff of Northborough, and Lori Mable of Delmar, N. Y.

They wore ivory chiffonette blouson gowns accented with ice blue flowers, and carried cascade bouquets of pink roses, white chrysanthemums and blue delphiniums.

Jennifer Kolaski of Barrington, R. I., was flower girl, wearing a light blue eyelet gown and carrying a small nosegay.

David Wright of Andover was his brother's best man, and ushers included the bride's brother, Steven E. Hillman of Andover, Daniel Knowlson of Metairie, La., Keith McIntyre of Andover and Robert Daley of Lee.

The new Mrs. Wright graduated from Andover High School in 1977, and from Endicott College in 1979. She was employed by Journey's Travel Service as a travel consultant.

Her husband, a 1978 graduate of Andover High, is serving in the U. S. Air Force, in munitions control.

They will be living in Wenigerath, Germany, after Oct. 1.

'Lowell By The Yard'

The textile industry is still very much alive in Lowell today, producing a variety of items such as jump ropes, haute couture fashion, designer upholstery fabric, lingerie and novelty yarns. "Lowell By The Yard," the current exhibit at the Lowell Museum, offers the visitor a fascinating glimpse of both past and present Lowell textile companies that continue to supply the nation with woven and non-woven products. This exhibit will be on display through Labor Day and includes representative samples and mini-histories on 15 companies.

According to Museum Director, Lewis Karabatsos, "The exhibit is designed to reverse the impression that Lowell's textile industry is only a memory of the past. The textile firms of today are still major companies of national significance." Accordingly, some of the companies featured in the exhibit are Baron-Peters Corp., a producer of elegant, tailored clothes for many of the nation's prominent women. (This company tailored the wedding gown of Luci Bains Johnson in 1966); Joan Fabrics, a manufacturer of quality upholstery fabrics; Gramco Co., the oldest supplier of children's jump ropes; and Pellon Corp., a pioneer of non-woven materials made from raw fibers, producing diverse products such as electric tape and rug binding.

The Lowell Museum is located at 560 Suffolk Street, Lowell and is open to the public from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., seven days a week during the summer. Admission is $1.00 for adults, $.50 for children under 15 and Senior Citizens. For information, call 459-6782.

On Sunday, July 27, the Castle Hill chamber music series will anticipate by a few months the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Telemann, one of Bach's contemporaries and possibly the

This and That about Here and There

• Did you know that you can buy insurance to protect yourself against cancellation penalties if accident or illness prevents your taking a trip you've already paid for? The cost is small, and your travel agent can readily furnish a policy for you.

• Your luggage damaged? ...Go to the airline's baggage service office and file a claim...but first...be sure to have your luggage inspected.

• Speaking of insurance...while airlines reimburse you...up to a point...for lost luggage, if it contains valuable items, it's best to have your travel agent provide baggage insurance before leaving.

• In America, airline baggage allowance is now based upon number of pieces and the dimensions of your luggage. But some countries still use the old system of limiting luggage by weight...usually 20 kilograms [44 pounds]. Take a moment to weigh suitcase on bathroom scales - and allow for an error of a pound or two.

• A travel agent can take the worry out of your travels.

CRUISES from BOSTON tend to be infrequent nowadays, but there are still a number of them every year. For instance, Holland America's s/s ROTTERDAM will sail from Boston Sunday, Nov. 9 for a 12-day cruise to San Juan, St. Martin, Martinique, Barbados, Antigua and St. Thomas. • The popularity of this splendid vessel, and Holland America's reputation for food and service, have already resulted in a number of bookings, but we're told this cruise is not yet sold out. The Rotterdam [37,000 tons gross register; registered in the Netherlands Antilles] is one of the largest liners presently calling at American ports and is fully air-conditioned. Cruise fares start at $1295. • But reservations are limited...contact us soon.

Man O' War

The jellyfish, Portuguese Man O'War, has thousands of stinging cells on long tentacles. The cell is a sac of poison with a coiled thread. When touched, a tiny hair on the outside of the cell triggers the thread, and the sharp tip penetrates the object.

The poison sac contracts, squirting venom down the hollow thread into the wound. The poison is as toxic as cobra venom; there is no known antidote, Massachusetts Audubon points out.

Summer — A Time For Reading

Summertime is always a prime time to read a good book. Along with our 1980 summer reading list and book display, Memorial Hall Library is now featuring a new display on Disaster! Tales of catastrophe, horror and nightmare. This list, compiled by the staffs of the Norwood and Boston Public Libraries, covers such areas as Animals gone amok — "Jaws" by Benchley; You can't fool Mother Nature" — "The Fire Cloud" by McKenney; and Technology strikes back — "Overload" by Hailey.

A Book For Antique Collectors

Another favorite summer pastime is shopping for and collecting antiques. If you are interested in brass objects, you will be delighted with the new book added to Memorial Hall Library's reference collection — "The Brass Book: American, English and European; 15th century to 1850" by Herbert, Peter and Nancy Schiffer. Large sections are devoted to andirons, candlesticks, fireplace accessories, kettles and tobacco boxes. The development of artistic styles in brass are fully illustrated and explained in their historical context. Ways to identify old copies and fakes are also included. If brass is not your "thing", Memorial Hall Library has a large reference and circulating collection of books on all types of antiques and collectibles.

Children's Room News by Bridget Bennett

Our summer of magical happenings continues in the Children's Room with an hour on Monday afternoon, July 28, devoted to "Indian Magic." Starting at 2 p.m., children 6-10 will have a chance to try making some sand paintings as well as some God's Eyes.

Tuesday morning, as usual, we'll be presenting a story hour for pre-schoolers aged 3½-5. Story Garden begins at 10 a.m.

School Project Design 'Just About Jelled'

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Design development of the three-part, $11.72 million school building project is now heading into the final stages, and should be "just about jelled" by early August, architects told the school building committee last Thursday night.

Included in the plans is a pagoda-style roof for the IMC area at West Junior High School which prompted some discussion among committee members.

Once the design work is completed, preparations of construction documents will begin, and the project will be put out for bids, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said.

The committee voted Thursday to accept the architects' current plans for playing fields at the new Doherty Junior High (called the East campus) and West Junior High (the West campus); renovations at Memorial Auditorium, to become part of Doherty; a new auditorium and renovated classrooms at the high school; and a new Instructional Materials Center (I.M.C.) and renovated classrooms at West.

Architects from Perley F. Gilbert Associates of Lowell have been meeting weekly with the town manager and Richard McGrail, building program coordinator for the school administration, to help keep the design development schedule on track, Clark said.

In addition, the architects recently held a series of at least 20 meetings with school teachers and other employees to review the designs, he said. The architects wanted to be sure they understood faculty desires, Clark said, and see if their ideas had changed since the architects first met with faculty members a year ago.

Among the "Lingering issues" recently resolved were reconstruction of the East campus playing fields, plans for the high school auditorium and the automotive shop, and art and home economics areas at Doherty, the town manager said.

When presented plans for the new I.M.C. at West, to be built in the existing courtyard, some building committee members expressed doubts about its unusual design. Architect Herbert Glassman's plans include a pagoda-like shingled roof, and two glass corridors leading into the I.M.C. from the main school building.

Committee members questioned the energy conservation, structural soundness, and necessity for the curved roof design.

Glassman replied that the roof would be easier to construct, probably more durable, and would require no more heating inside the structure than a conventional flat roof.

"The logic of the pagoda shape was to create an area where students would want to go, and feel comfortable in," the architect explained. "We wanted to preserve the garden atmosphere of the courtyard. Something with spirit and beauty is just as important to the building as bricks and mortar."

In answer to fears that the two glass accessways would attract vandals, committee member Donald Robb pointed out that it would be difficult for anyone to reach the courtyard area, which is entirely enclosed by the school.

Glassman also described recently revised plans for the science laboratories and classrooms at West. The building program calls for water to be available at student tables in two of the existing three labs (one lab already has water) and in a new lab to be added.

Although preliminary plans called for water lines to be installed through the floors, Glassman said it appears it would be preferable to buy new stone-top lab tables already equipped for water, and hook them up to existing water lines.

The architect suggested this alternative because the existing lab tables have masonite tops that are "in bad shape," and therefore not worth installing sinks in, he said.

He also recommended that the perforated fiberboard ceilings in the labs be replaced because they are a fire hazard, and that the incandescent lighting be replaced with fluorescent lighting for an energy savings.

Robb said these changes would probably be funded through the school department's maintenance budget, rather than the school building project bond.

Designs for Doherty classrooms, Memorial Auditorium, and high school classrooms and new auditorium were described to the committee in detail by architect Gerry Dion.

The Memorial Auditorium which features 650 seats and a storage area beneath the stage, aroused some discussion, because it includes a doorway in the wall that separates the stage and the adjoining gymnasium. McGrail said school administrators have always wanted to keep the auditorium and gymnasium completely separate.

"I don't want a door in that wall," McGrail said. "I don't want to be able to use the gym as a dressing area for the stage. You cannot mix these two programs (drama and physical education)."

Chairman Kenneth Gropper asked McGrail and Dion to work on resolving the problem together.

The high-school auditorium will now include 1246 seats, scaled down from the 1269 seats Dion previously had said it would have. The new auditorium will include an 85-foot stage, a ramp system and seating to accommodate the handicapped, and an outdoor theatre area, the architect said.

Design development on "just about everything should be just about jelled" when the building committee next meets on Aug. 7 at town hall, Dion said.

In other business before the building committee last week, committee members approved the payment of a $42,364 invoice for the architectural firm's design development work, as well as $1,890 for cost estimates done by Al Fogarty Associates.

A TV Police Drama Becomes Real

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The sequence of photos taken by bank cameras last Friday evening freeze action that seems to be straight out of a television police story: A young cop, crouching behind a column, fires at a masked bank robber crouched behind the same column, less than two feet away, who is firing right back.

But the drama was very real last week at the Lawrence Savings Bank in Shawsheen Square, and the real reserve police officer involved was Andover's William MacKenzie.

The three suspects in the robbery escaped Friday but warrants for their arrest have been obtained.

MacKenzie has been lauded by the police department and board of selectmen for his cool-headedness during the robbery.

MacKenzie is a full-time firefighter who for the last year and a half has also served as a reserve police officer, available for duty "whenever they need help."

Last Friday, he was needed at the Lawrence Savings Bank for guard duty during the 4-8:30 p.m. shift. He had done guard duty at the bank once before, a week earlier.

The officer noticed the men in ski masks the minute they pulled into the parking lot shortly before 6 p.m., as he watched from inside. But even as they walked through the door, MacKenzie could not believe they really intended to rob the bank. "I thought, what the heck is this, Halloween?" he recalls.

He clicked into action immediately, however, reaching for his gun and moving towards the door. Already he was carefully planning his strategy.

"I was going to take them right there as they came through the door," he says. "But I saw that there was a man — a customer heading for the bank — standing behind a car outside in the parking lot, and I realized he was in my line of fire."

So MacKenzie held his fire and crouched down beside the column he was standing near. While, incredibly, the two robbers walked right past him. The officer "took a bead" on the two men with his gun, while one vaulted over the tellers' counter and the other held two tellers and one customer at the counter at gunpoint.

The officer watched silently as the man behind the counter "yelled at the tellers to give him the money, and the other one, with his weapon drawn, kept yelling at him to hurry up." MacKenzie waited to act because "I didn't want to start anything while they were near the two tellers and the customer."

The shoot-out began when the robbers, with an undisclosed amount of money, turned to leave the bank. MacKenzie says he yelled, "Halt, police officer," to the robbers. The unarmed man jumped back over the counter and ran out the door.

The second robber, however, took aim at the officer, and MacKenzie believes they fired at each other almost simultaneously before both took cover behind the same column. "His first bullet hit the post," the officer says matter-of-factly, "and I think my bullet hit him in the side."

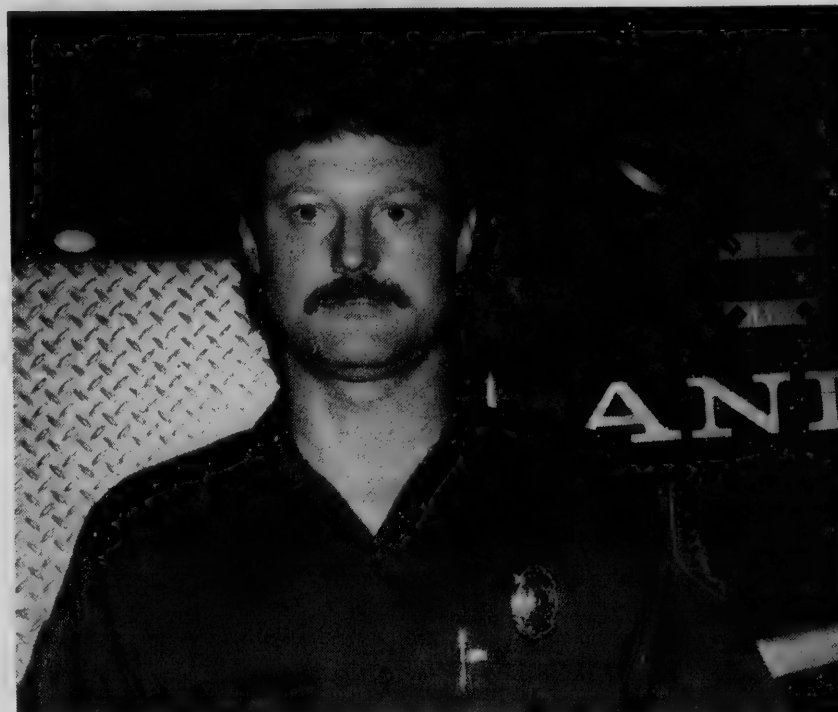

One bank photograph shows the robber crouching his side as he lunges for MacKenzie. Then he "jumped up and shot at my head," the officer recalls.

During the next minutes the men played a dangerous game of ring-around-the-rosie, chasing each other around the column on their hands and knees, each firing five shots. MacKenzie says. They were less than two feet away from each other, he estimates, and the bank photos illustrate.

The game stopped when MacKenzie started to stand, then dove around the column instead, shooting the robber in the side again, he believes.

At that point the officer headed out the door to reload, and the robber fired at him once more. That bullet whistled past his head, MacKenzie says.

The officer then followed the robber outside — where the first masked man was waiting in a blue 1974 Chrysler New Yorker — "but there were people standing around in the parking lot so I couldn't fire," MacKenzie explains. He then fired at the car as it sped onto Poor Street.

William MacKenzie

MacKenzie, a quiet and reserved man, has been exposed to flying bullets before. A 1967 graduate of North Reading High School, he served as a paratrooper in the Army's 173rd Airborne Division, and saw action in Vietnam for 18 months during 1968-69.

An Andover firefighter for the past three years, MacKenzie is currently attending Northern Essex Community College part-time. There he is studying liberal arts and fire sciences.

He has also attended the state police academy for 17 weeks.

MacKenzie says he topped the civil service lists for both the police and fire departments more than three years ago. But because there were no openings in the police department at that time, he became a firefighter. By serving as a reserve police officer, he has kept his name on the list for openings at the police department.

On July 31, MacKenzie will return to the police academy for 12 weeks, because his hopes came true this week: On Monday, he was appointed a full-time police patrolman.

"We are very happy to see you going on the force," Selectmen Vice Chairman Norma Gammon told MacKenzie Monday night. "I saw the bank photos today, and it is absolutely unbelievable, what you have done."

The officer appears to have taken it all in stride, however. "And here is the guy aiming his gun at me," he says unexcitedly, describing one of the bank photos.

And what did MacKenzie do after the excitement ended Friday night? He simply reported for additional duty at the 99 Restaurant in Andover.

Decision Due On Farmhouse Move

The Zoning Board of Appeals is expected to reach a decision during its next meeting, scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 7, on Arkwright/Boston Insurance Co.'s petition to move the Shattuck farmhouse from the farm property.

That decision will bring the case to a close two years after it first came before the zoning board.

Located in the West Andover Industrial Park, which is owned by Arkwright, the Shattuck property is part of the land package soon to be acquired by Digital Equipment Corp. The farm buildings, however, will remain the property of Arkwright.

In its petition to the zoning board, originally presented in 1978, Arkwright proposed to move the farmhouse to a one-and-a-half acre triangular piece of land located at the intersection of the old and new River Roads. The company hopes to use the building as a bank and office building.

During a hearing before the week, Arkwright, represented by 93 Building Trust, asked the board's permission to withdraw the petition, with the intention of possibly revising and refiling it at a later date.

But by that time, the case had already been before the state Superior Court and sent back before the local zoning board for another look. For that reason, the board felt it had no authority to grant the petitioner's request to withdraw, Zoning Board Chairman Wesley E. Whitney reports.

In 1978, a three-member zoning board granted Arkwright's request for variances that would allow the company to move the farmhouse.

Residents of Old River Road appealed that decision before the Superior Court. As a result the court sent the case back before the board last month, instructing the board to "enlarge upon its decision," Whitney said.

The board now includes five members, including Jane Griswold, representing the two years ago, Whitney said. The newer board "took the view that some substantial changes had taken place since 1978," Whitney said. "They realized that there was a big intersection there now, and a new road."

The addition of a bank could increase the traffic already caused by employees driving to and from the industrial park, Whitney explained. But the old board had held no discussions focusing on traffic problems, he said.

The new board therefore felt it should hold another hearing "to consider the traffic impact of having a branch bank at that junction."

It was during that hearing, held last week, that 93 Building Trust Attorney John Kahn asked permission to withdraw petition, so the company could take another look at its plans for dealing with traffic.

Atty. John Williams, representing the residents, opposed that request because the case had already been through the courts at the residents' expense, and because two years had already passed without a final decision.

The board concluded that the petitioner's request to withdraw was simply too late, "because the decision was now before the board as a result of a court order for the board to take action," said Whitney.

"So, although the board has granted requests to withdraw petitions from other petitioners a number of times, in this case it felt the case is now in the hands of the Superior Court, and not in our hands," he added.

Whether or not the board wished to grant the request to withdraw Arkwright's petition "was never really an issue," Whitney said. "There had already been a decision rendered two years ago, it is now before the court, and the court has issued an order to the board to make a decision. It is the board's opinion that the court now has charge of this case."

Pagoda-styled addition proposed for West Junior High

The Uncolonializing Of Andover

Journalism theorists, English professors and experts will probably condemn the dastardly compromising of the word colonial in the title of this treatise.

But, traditions and theories are meant to be bypassed at times, if only for the sake of making a point.

Andover, for many years has been known as a staid, New England community whose colonial charm still proves an attraction to many.

Thus, builders continue to erect homes of quaint colonial or New England architecture and people come from far and wide to buy them and become known as Andoverites.

The same theories and traditions apparently do not exist in the public sector, however, where new municipal construction diverts from the traditional colonial norm as far as possible.

Latest example is the proposed new addition to the West Junior High School which is to take the form of a pagoda. It will be known as the Instructional Material Center (IMC) which, when you and I were young Maggie, was known as a library.

The pagoda style structure which will be connected to the school via a glassed-in walkway, is designed to be appealing, refreshing and in inspiration to students, through its innovative design.

As a simple suggestion the theater arts department at the high school, which has been accorded a new auditorium and other rooms, through the recent town meeting funding, should begin preparation for the pagoda dedication as soon as school resumes in September. "Teahouse of the August Moon," should be the dedicatory production.

We feel somewhat obligated to make the suggestion at this time, since the department missed the boat completely at the dedication of the Bancroft school. A production of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, would have been appropriate for the structure which has become known fondly by some as the Disneyland of the East.

The pagoda is the most inexpensive portion of the $11.2 million school building project; thus it may be appropriate that the architects give the structure a little pizzazz.

Hopefully it will be situated in such a way that its uniqueness will not be hidden by the mosaic facade at the auditorium portion of the West building.

We have nothing against pagodas. There are some beautiful ones in California and other sections of the country where the climate seems adaptable to such.

This is simply an advisory to the building committee to see to it that the town is assured of construction which will face New England conditions.

When Bancroft was built, we were assured that it would be fine in this section of the country.

History and a few hundred thousand corrective dollars have proven that such a structure is better suited for Arizona.

Basically, let's just make sure that the innovative approach is New England, or better still, northeast-proof.

As for retention of the colonial or New England approach to school construction, there's always North Andover right nearby. Put on your tricornered hat, pick up your musket and go have a look at their new school construction which resembles textile mills, a constant reminder of the town's early industrial base.

It just seems amazing that new school construction can prove to be such a challenge to designers.

Down The Years With The Townsman

39

THE TOWNSMAN, JULY 24, 1980

75 Years Ago — July 1905

J. H. Richardson, the well-known proprietor of the Thorndale Stock farm, has purchased an up-to-date hay loader. The machine is a wonderful invention and is well worth seeing.

Henry W. Barnard had great luck while fishing at the Isle of Shoals where he is spending a few weeks. He succeeded in landing a four hundred pound shark and a fifty pound cod a few days ago.

A well-laden grocery team owned by the Arlington Co-operative Association of Lawrence tipped over at the corner of Essex and Brook streets on Tuesday, causing considerable damage. The vicinity had the appearance of a poulticed scrambled egg.

The woodwork on the front of the bank building has received a fresh coat of varnish this week by A. N. Caldwell.

As has been the custom during the past few summers the boy members of the Christ church choir under the guidance of organist and choirmaster John Batchelder will enjoy an outing of ten days in camp at Canobie Lake. The boys will sleep in tents and will board at the Canobie Lake farm as in the past. This is only one of the kindnesses they receive at the hands of Mr. Batchelder.

50 Years Ago — July 1930

Engineers are now at work on plans for the rebuilding of Union street which is expected will be in shape to advertise for bids this month.

The third annual pet show was held last Friday evening on the playground with about 600 present, including playground children, their parents and friends. Dogs, cats, rabbits and birds were entered in the contest.

Arthur W. Hall of 22 High St., who was nearly drowned last Sunday when he fell from a motorboat at Gloucester, returned to his home in Andover on Thursday after spending several days as a patient at the Addison Gilbert hospital.

About 150 men, women and children attended the annual picnic held Saturday at Salem Willows under the joint auspices of Clan Johnson, 185, O.S.C., and the Ladies' Auxiliary, 42, to the Clan. Many took the occasion to enjoy a dip in the ocean and the various amusement places.

Chief of Police Frank M. Smith and Motorcycle Officer Carl Stevens are still trying to determine how a ten dollar bill which had been "blessed" by two gypsy women suddenly disappeared from a closed pocketbook which had been held tightly in the hand of a River road woman.

25 Years Ago — July 1955

Clark's brook is polluted. That is the opinion of C. I. Sterling, Jr., state deputy commissioner of public health, department of environmental sanitation. Exhaustive tests of the water were made by his department on the request of the board of selectmen.

Three decisions of the zoning board of appeals were appealed in Salem superior court this week. All three related to gravel pit licenses either turned down by the board or allowed with restrictions.

An interchange at Lowell Junction on new Route 28, with a service road, has been recommended to the state by the board of selectmen. They further recommended that no dead-ended streets be left in the town and that River road be a throughway.

Final plans for the addition to the West school will be presented to the school committee next Tuesday night. Superintendent Edward I. Erickson said the Perley F. Gilbert Associates are to have final plans available following a conference in Boston with the School Building Assistance commission.

Identification is being carefully checked at Pomp's pond. The Recreation committee and Supervisor Donald D. Dunn have explained that only Andover residents may use the swimming facilities because the parking facilities are so crowded.

10 Years Ago — July 1970

An apartment project proposed for Haverhill street is running into problems even before it gets to the hearing stage before the Zoning Board of Appeals. Angelo Cataldo, trustee of the Rose Cataldo Family Trust of Revere, has petitioned the board for a variance to allow construction of apartments for low-income or elderly families. The land is located off Haverhill street, adjacent to the North Andover line.

Richard Seikunas won the eastern regional competition for the 15-18 year age

JACK ANDERSON

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Carter Violating Law On Campaign Spending?

By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON -- Jimmy Carter has apparently found a subtle way to get around the laws that limit campaign spending. He is letting the taxpayers foot a large part of the bill.

We have already reported how the president shelled out the taxpayers' money to states which had an important impact on his renomination. Millions of dollars' worth of grants and loans were announced, suspiciously, just before the voters went to the polls in crucial primaries.

The Census Bureau also gave priority to job applicants who were recommended by politicians loyal to Carter. The bureau even put it in writing. A Jan. 25 memo stated: "Throughout the recruiting process, preference will be given to candidates recommended by the political party of the incumbent administration." This was illegal.

The Environmental Protection Agency has also secretly instructed its employees "to actively pursue speaking opportunities ... to point out the administration's strong record of environmental accomplishments."

Here's the latest: The president has quietly drawn 225 people from other federal agencies to work in the White House. They are doing the work of aides who have taken off to campaign for Carter's re-election.

Last year at this time, only 25 people from other agencies were assigned to the White House. Now there are nearly 10 times that number. A White House spokesman explained that more people are needed to handle "special projects." The No. 1 special project, of course, is getting Carter re-elected.

With all these extra people helping out at the White House, meanwhile, Carter's aides have quietly asked Congress for an additional $736,000 in supplemental funds. The money is needed, they said, to help pay the salaries of the White House staff.

CARLOS THE JACKAL: Most people have probably never heard of Illyich Ramirez Sanchez. He is known as Carlos the Jackal, and he is considered to be the world's most daring, dangerous terrorist.

It was Carlos, for example, who masterminded the audacious plot to kidnap 10 oil ministers at OPEC headquarters in Vienna five years ago.

Not much is known about Sanchez before he became Carlos the Jackal because he has skillfully veiled his activities. Intelligence specialists are sure of only one thing: He was born in Venezuela. But from that point on, his private life has been shadowy, and his dealings have been secretive.

Carlos is reported to be a stocky man, is a master of disguises, and has a reputation as an accomplished ladies' man. But where is he? What is he doing? The world's intelligence services aren't sure.

But our sources are convinced he is in Libya, working for the radical Arab leader Muammar Qaddafi. It's known that Qaddafi has sent assassination teams to England, Greece, Italy and West Germany to gun down his opponents. One team was caught in the United States and shipped home.

Carlos the Jackal, our sources believe, has been training and directing these assassination squads.

There is one man above all others whom Qaddafi wants to eliminate -- the man he hates the most, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. In July 1977, Israeli intelligence agents discovered a plot by Qaddafi to assassinate Sadat and tipped off the Egyptians.

This past April, a hit team tried to blow up Sadat's plane in the Azores while the Egyptian leader was on his way home from Washington. The action, code-named "Operation Nile," was also thwarted by intelligence agents.

The man behind the planning and training for the scheme, we are told, was Carlos the Jackal.

GIs IN GERMANY: The citizens of southern Germany apparently dislike American GIs so much that Army brass hats are worried they may not be able to station their troops there. According to an internal Army memo, relations between U.S. soldiers and their German hosts are "poor and deteriorating." The Army is planning to research the attitude of the Germans toward American soldiers and use the results to develop a more comprehensive orientation program for GIs who are bound for Germany.

DRUNK DRIVING: Last year, drunk drivers on U.S. highways killed 25,000 people. Now, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., has suggested a mandatory jail sentence for anyone convicted of drunken driving. The proposal would ensure the cooperation of the states by denying them federal highway funds if they failed to enforce the jail term rule. The Pell proposal is supported by the White House and some highway safety groups, but it faces stiff opposition from the American Automobile Association.

HALL OF HEROES: This week we nominate to our Hall of Heroes government worker Joe Petrutsch, an air-conditioning inspector for the scandal-ridden General Services Administration. The San Francisco-based Petrutsch has saved the taxpayers almost $800,000 in the past four years by devising ways -- on his own time -- to keep government buildings cool while using less energy.

Andover Nationals Eye District Title

By Dan Grams

The Andover National League All Stars, a team whose chances were almost totally overlooked due to a talented Andover American squad, have made their presence felt with some convincing tourney victories.

With the early departure of the West Side entry, (Andover Americans), many of the local sports goers are directing their attention to a scrappy bunch of kids from the East Side of town.

Under the direction of Alan Tarro and Jim Carpentier, the Nationals appear to be well on their way to a District 14 Title.

The District 14 Title would be the first ever for a National Team, an honor which has eluded some pretty good clubs of years past. Past teams guided by Coaches such as Dick Neal, Ross and Leo Detoro, and Howie Larabee have failed to capture the District 14 Crown, losing in the Championship match. This year's team may just break the jinx and possibly put Andover on the map in Little League play.

The Team

The 1980 Andover National All Stars are truly a unique bunch of kids, for they have no superstars. They're a closely bonded unit who plays as a team, and somehow or another, they get the job done. Their determination, heads-up play, and over-all hustle always makes them a winner regardless of the score.

The team consists of 18 players, who were put together at the last minute, but now appear as if they've been playing together all year.

This year's National League Champion Braves field 2 players: Jeff Penner and David Sullivan. Penner, this year's home run king has earned himself a spot on the starting team, while the 11-year-old Sullivan is in reserve.

The first half Co-Champion Pirates placed four boys, James Marocco, Rob Ditroia, Steve Gemmel, and John Nuzzo.

Marocco led his team with a .328 batting average to make the stars, while Ditroia may very well be the best all-around player. Nuzzo and Gemmel appear to be assured of starting positions.

Two of the weaker teams in the league both put two of its players on the squad. Scott Wilkins and Chris Bartley (Mets); Rob Nelson and Rob Hendry (Cubs) have made big contributions in reserve roles.

Physical Examinations For Athletes

All candidates interested in trying out for the Andover Public Schools Interscholastic Programs are reminded that a physical examination is required prior to the first day of practice. Without the physical examination, a student will be unable to practice with the team.

Any physical examination received in the winter or spring of 1980 is satisfactory for one year from that date of the physical examination.

All Stars

If anyone fails to produce, the coaches don't hesitate to install these two into the lineup. Deery's play is a story itself. Deery, one of the best pitchers in the league in the regular season, is one of many good hurlers on the stars. Because to put him when he was not pitching. Finally he was inserted into centerfield, where he has yet to leave.

Rounding out the team are: Chris Colsia, John Marocco, and Fran Ferrara (Giants), and Tom Noveline (Dodgers), Marocco, Noveline and Ferrara are unable to participate in All-Star play because of prior commitments.

Andover National 8 Lowell Highlands 2

The Andover Nationals staked Lowell Highlands an early 2 run lead, but battled back to soundly defeat Highlands 8-2.

Rob Carpentier was the complete game winner for the Nationals firing a 2-hitter. Carpentier walked 7, while striking out 7.

The visiting Lowell entry jumped out to an early 2 run lead in the first, thanks to some sloppy Andover play. Leadoff batter Mark Belanger greeted Carpentier with a line drive base hit, Mike Staravich walked, and the two runners proceeded to pull off a double steal. Carpentier settled down to get Gary Wojtkewicz on strikes, and Mike Dillon to hit a harmless grounder, however, the harmless grounder turned into a disaster.

After second sacker John Nuzzo threw onto first for the second out, the runner on third broke for home, catching the first basemen napping. The runner on second also tried to advance, and the ball was rifled into leftfield to rescue the second run. Lowell walked out of the inning with 2 runs on 1 hit.

Andover came to bat with Scott Deery leading off. Deery just missed a Wojtkewicz and flew out to left. Rob Nelson then singled. Jeff Penner went down swinging, but with 2 outs, Rob Ditroia delivered a long double to chase home Nelson with the Nationals first run.

Andover then evened the score in the third. Rob Nelson led off the inning with a walk, he was then forced at second by Penner, for the first out. Penner then stole second and raced home on Ditroia's second straight hit to tie the score at 2.

Carpentier was still struggling on the mound, but not with the opposition. Wildness had become his major concern rather than the Highland hitters. As a matter of fact, after the first stanza, Lowell failed to hit the ball out of the infield.

Andover struck for all the runs they would need in the fourth. Carpentier and James Marocco drew back to back walks.

After a strikeout, and a screaming line drive out off the bat of Deery for out number two. Rob Nelson flaired his second single of the game to load the bases for Jeff Penner. Penner then unloaded on a Wojtkewicz fast ball, sending it over the left field fence.

Andover closed its scoring in the fifth without the benefit of a hit.

Nelson and Ditroia had two hits apiece to lead the National attack, while Carpentier drew three walks. Ditroia and Penner accounted for six of the eight National runs.

Andover Rolls On, 7-0

Eleven year old Ted Cormier scattered three hits to blank Lowell Oliveria 7-0. Cormier struck out eight, while walking two to give the Nationals their second straight victory over Lowell oppositions.

Cormier was in complete control throughout the game, only letting three balls out of the infield, those coming off the bat of catcher Pudge Martin who had two hits. Martin just missed a third when he was robbed of a sixth inning homer by Scott Wilkins.

Andover struck early for three runs in the first. Rob Nelson walked and advanced to second on Scott Deery's single. Jeff Penner then brought the first run home with a flaire dumped into no-man's land for a Ribbie. Rob Ditroia then rescued Deery with a long double. Andover picked up its third run of the inning on an overthrow.

After Oliveria hurler Bill Jones settled down, the game turned into a pitchers duel. Cormier with the aid of second sacker John Nuzzo, had Oliveria eating out of the palm of his hand, while Andover batters were having a hard time catching up to Janes' fastball.

Andover then picked up two runs in the fourth without a hit, and closed out the scoring in the top half of the fifth. Rob Ditroia and Ted Cormier lashed back-to-back singles. Steve Gemmel moved both runners up with a long sacrifice fly. John Nuzzo then laid down a perfect safety squeeze to plate Ditroia, and an overthrow brought home the seventh and final tally.

Second baseman John Nuzzo handled six chances flawlessly to star defensively for the Andover stars.

Sweepers County Champs

The Andover Sweepers, an under 16 boys team, posted an enviable record in the Essex County Soccer League this Spring. They won the victory points in their nine scheduled games and allowed the competition only one goal scored in the first game of the season.

In play-off action on June 22nd on Lower Shawsheen field, the Sweepers became the Essex County under-16 champions when they tallied three goals against a Lynn squad whilst holding them to one successful shot on their nets.

On the weekend of June 28, the Sweepers journeyed to Abington, host town for the 1980 under-16 boys and girls state championship finals. In quarter final action, the Sweepers played a strong team from Sutton and won a 3-0 victory. In the semi-finals, the Andover team had to play an aggressive Foxboro squad. Both teams battled through 80 minutes of regulation play without getting on the scoreboard. In two 15 minute overtime periods, Andover and Foxboro again worked hard for the elusive goal, unsuccessfully. This threw the game into a final shoot-out to decide the winners and Foxboro tallied sufficient goals to make them the victors.

To Install Stop Sign

A stop sign will be erected at the intersection of Highland Road and Salem Street at the recommendation of the Police Department. The selectmen authorized the addition of the sign Monday night.

The Andover Sweepers were coached by Bob Carrick and the team members who won for Andover its first Essex County Championship were Rick Apgar, Greg Batten, Steven Carbone, Dan Boland, Mark Edgar, David Fredette, James Glazer, Danny Kimball, John Lemieux, Yvon Levesque, Alvin Ohlenbusch, Frank Rossitto, Ken Saliba, Greg Shionis, Paul Thoday and Ian Yates.

131 Fairs

This summer, why not enjoy a day at the fair? During the 1980 season, there will be 131 agricultural fairs across the state, so there's bound to be one or more within a drive that's short and easy on the cost of gasoline.

The festive, friendly atmosphere and many varied activities at Massachusetts fairs combine to produce a lively, fun expedition for the entire family.

Handicrafts, livestock and horticultural exhibits, homegrown produce, cattle and sheep judging are standard features, and many of the major fairs also offer live entertainment, dancing, amusement rides and horseracing.

During this year's fair season in Massachusetts, there will be 23 major agricultural fairs, as well as more than 100 others, which include youth fairs, Grange fairs, community fairs and livestock fairs.

Sport Shop Booters In First

By Dan Earley

Two victories last week by the Andover Sport Shop Soccer Club allowed them to move into a three way tie for first place along with the two Topsfield teams in the Northern Division of the Suburban Twilight Soccer League.

On Tuesday night the Sport Shop beat the Andover Hockey Shop 2-0. This win coupled with a 1-1 tie between the two Topsfield teams created the three team deadlock for first place and raised the Sport Shop's record to 6-1-2. On Thursday the Sport Shop continued their winning ways and upped their record to 7-1-2 with a dramatic 3-2 win over Haverhill.

On an extremely humid Tuesday night the Andover Sport Shop met the Andover Hockey Shop and the two Andover teams put on a fine exhibition of good clean soccer. The game was evenly matched and featured play at both ends of the field. The only difference in the game was the scoring punch of Dave Farrell. Farrell's first goal came midway through the first half as he picked up a deflected ball, dribbled laterally past three defenders and then blasted a shot from 25 yards out that knuckled into the upper right hand corner of the net for a perfect score.

That was all the scoring in the first half and the Sport Shop led 1-0. The Hockey Shop began to open up more and attack in the second half. Peter Morton settled the ball well at midfield and delivered several balls to forwards Bob Daly and Chip Rogers both of whom drilled shots that just barely missed creating a tie ball game.

The Sport Shop then stormed back as Dave Hines worked the ball into the right corner, drew a defender and then chipped the ball to Dave Farrell who neatly headed the ball up and over a drawn out Hockey Shop goalie Jeff Nicastro. The goal was Farrell's ninth of the season, tying him for the team lead, and gave the Sport Shop a 2-0 lead.

Much credit was also due to Sport Shop keeper, Chuck Ness, who recorded his first shutout of the season. The Sport Shop's defense was also bolstered by the return of fireball fullback, Harry Collins, who had been out with an ankle injury. Tommy Keefe also chipped in for the winners with some aggressive hard nose soccer, while the Hockey Shop's Jim Wood and Chuck Augello played well in defeat.

Thursday night found the Sport Shop traveling to Haverhill for a supposedly easy match against a club that they had embarrassed earlier in the year by a 6-2 margin.

This night however produced a different story. Heavy rains had left the field slippery and the first half was played under a steady downpour. Whatever the reason, the Sport Shop had trouble getting untracked and played lazy soccer. A Haverhill score midway through the first half gave them a 1-0 lead and woke up the Sport Shop players. They began to play more aggressive soccer and utilize their advantage in playing skill. Some ten minutes later the Sport Shop tied the game at one apiece on a goal set up after a corner Kick. Dave Hines put the ball into play with a short pass to an unguarded Dave Teggart who beat the Haverhill goal tender to the inside with a well place shot from the left side of the penalty area. That ended the scoring for the first half at one goal apiece.

The second half began with the Sport Shop immediately applying pressure and threatening to score. Just eight minutes into the period, winger Dave Hines picked up a ball and chipped it perfectly over a defender's head into Dave Teggart who put the ball by the goalkeeper for his second goal of the afternoon and a 2-1 Andover lead. Andover continued to dominate play but could not score as several of their shots just missed.

Haverhill then managed to score the equalizer with 20 minutes left in the game as a result of a goal following a corner kick. Tied 2-2 and with time running out the Sport Shop really began to press. Virtually all the remainder of the game was to be played in the Haverhill end. The Sport Shop, however, could not score and seemed doomed to tie the Haverhill team. Suddenly with under two minutes left in the contest, winger Tommy Keefe, worked a ball into the right corner, waited, then lofted the ball across the goal mouth to Dave Teggart who headed the ball into the left corner of the net for his third score of the game, giving the Sport Shop a 3-2 lead and touching off a celebration by the Andover squad who had almost lost hope of winning this contest. The last minute plus of the game was played out uneventfully and the game ended at 3-2 and allowed the Sport Shop to remain in a first place tie with the Topsfield teams, both of whom also won their Thursday games.

Tim Dewhurst and Jim Ness chipped in with fine defensive efforts for the Sport Shop who continue their efforts for the league title next week with games against Hamilton-Wenham and Salem.

Dying Stars

The tremendous drama of a star explosion in outer space usually makes impact discernible only to astronomers.

Now, however, visitors to the Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science can see the brilliance of a dying star and hear the signal of its still-powerful energy in a new program, "Ghost of Superstar."

Although most stellar casualties are not visible to the naked eye, within historical times several have been observed. In 1054 Chinese observers noted an extremely bright, new star that shone even in daylight, and then vanished. Similar observations were made by the Danish astronomer, Tycho Brahe, in 1572, and by the German astronomer, Johann Kepler, in 1604.

Love Conquers Gypsy Moth

The same ruse that has trapped me repeatedly now is after the gypsy moth.

It works only on males. One smells exquisite perfume and plunges heedlessly down a corridor. If you're human, you may get zapped by some guy with a black-jack. The male gypsy moth goes down the corridor and becomes tangled fatally in a gummy substance.

Later in a missive, the secret of how one obtains the fatal gypsy moth corridor free will be revealed. It should be a message of great cheer. After all, you have stood helplessly while those hairy gypsy moth caterpillars wined and dined through the summer on the leaves of your trees. Now that they are reaching the flying moth stage, you must get back at them before they romance all over the grounds.

Either one acts now or becomes resigned to the possibility that next year the estate may be denuded by another generation of gypsy moths. The trap we are about to discuss snuffs out romance and the male gypsy moth at one stroke. If one gets the trap up soon enough, the female gypsy moths of the neighborhood die as old maids and wallflowers.

The gypsy moth trap works because scientists have beaten the female gypsy moth at her own game. They have concocted a chemical slurp known as Disparlure. When a male gypsy moth picks up vibes from Disparlure, he homes right in on it. In general, the chemical seems more attractive than the genuine female-generated original scent. Indeed, one must be careful not to smear Disparlure on hands or shoes while working with the substance. Otherwise, all eligible gypsy moth bachelors in the area will gang up on one. So far, no gang of gypsy moth males has thrown anyone to the ground, so it ranks as only a nuisance at his time.

The cure that wipes out the next gypsy moth generation is an orange chunk of cardboard. It has a small bag of Disparlure stapled to it. You bend the thing into what looks like a small hog hutch. If you do not know much about hogs, do not worry. There are complete instructions. The little triangle-shaped corridor is about 8 inches long. One matches the two holes in the top, runs a piece of cord through them, and hangs the gadget on a zooming toward the box.

The orange cardboard gadgets have been provided for the Massachusetts Audubon Society by the Middlesex County Insect Pest Control Unit. While perhaps not as much help as Chrysler got, they are a way through which the government lends commoner citizens a hand.

Do not worry about attracting male gypsy moths to your property. They do not eat rugs or blankets. They eat only tree leaves.

To get your free trap, write Gypsy Moths, Massachusetts Audubon Society, Lincoln, Ma 01773. Include an envelope 9 1/2 by 12 1/2 inches the extra half inches are crucial! Write your name and address on the envelope and attach 41 cents in postage stamps. In addition to the trap, you will receive instructions on how to convert a Half-gallon milk carton into a gypsy moth trap after the original trap becomes full.

N. H. but feels she was "forced into" that purchase by the conversion, she says.

Karen and Richard Gustafson of 9 Longwood Drive rented their apartment without a lease in March, and only after they moved in began to hear rumors of the pending conversion.

The Gustafsons' apartment has been sold, Karen Gustafson says, and they received a terminating notice on July 14, giving them until the end of August to move out.

Now moving into an Amesbury apartment, Karen Gustafson says she is "upset" that her family was asked to move so soon after they arrived. "That really hurt. It took us five months to find this place. If I had known, I never would've unpacked," she adds, laughing.

But she did not feel pressured to move, she says, and feels lucky that her family did not have time to put down roots in Andover. "We really like Andover, and it's hard for our two school-aged boys to have to leave again, but we haven't been here so long that it was really important for us to stay in the area."

Two other tenants agree that they have not been pressured to leave their apartments. One man says his lease expired May 1, and he has been a tenant at will since then. His apartment has not yet been sold.

An elderly tenant maintains that all have been given adequate notice. Like her 84-year-old neighbor, she plans to move into a smaller apartment in North Andover. "I think the management has been very fair," she says. "There has been no pressure to leave, and they've always been very nice to me."

Several residents say they initially considered buying a condominium, but decided against it.

"The only way you can get the discount is to buy the apartment you presently live in, as is. If you move to another unit, you pay the full price," says Patricia Ford.

Her current apartment is "a musty, basement apartment next to the boiler room," she says. "The windows don't open properly and you can't get them out to clean them."

She was also dissatisfied with the choice between new appliances or new carpeting, she adds, because her apartment is in need of both.

Ruth Ford decided not to buy in part because, for a monthly mortgage payment and maintenance fees totalling $526, compared to her current monthly rent of $330, "I would still have all the same rules and restrictions of apartment living."

Ruth Ford also doubts that the condominiums would be a sound investment. "I'm afraid because of the poor maintenance here, the lackadaisical way they keep it up, and the promises that have not been kept, that this place will be a mess in a few years," she says.

Ruth and Patricia Ford say the management has failed to improve the heating systems in their buildings and landscape the entire grounds as promised. (Landscapers, however, were seen working at the complex earlier this week.)

Herland says the discount offered to her "wasn't that great," because she did not want to stay in her current apartment. "I've had a bug problem there off and on for three years, and they should exterminate," she says. She adds that she has at times waited months for repairs needed in her apartment.

The Gustafsons could afford neither the downpayment nor the monthly payments, Karen Gustafson says. They also felt the apartment "was not worth the money" asked because "nobody cares about the cleaning or maintenance — the apartment we're moving into is really much better. We can't wait to get out of here."

but an elderly tenant who says her reasons for leaving were "personal" says her building has always been properly cleaned and maintained.

Another tenant says the buildings were designed as apartments and are not "suitable for condominiums. They're not soundproof — the walls are too thin. But," he adds, "I'm against condominiums anyway."

Whatever their reasons for leaving Andover Gardens or their attitude towards the management, most of the tenants who spoke with the TOWNSMAN said they found it difficult to leave.

"My first reaction was a lot of desperation," says Ruth Ford. "when you have pets and children, it's not easy to move. I can't believe that Andover wouldn't protect people from being forced to move, with no time to find a new place." She has been "forced" to rent a house, Ford says.

Patricia Ford regrets that she will probably have to take her son "out of what I consider to be an excellent school system." "I'll probably have to move to Lawrence or Lowell or someplace farther north," she says.

One man says he has been searching the area for a new apartment for months with no luck. He says he could receive his termination notice at any time.

It is perhaps hardest for the elderly, because many have settled into the apartments with no intentions of ever moving again.

"I love it here," said one woman. "My furniture fits in just perfectly and there is plenty of closet room. When I moved in, I planned to be here for the rest of my lifetime. The place I'm moving to isn't this big and it doesn't seem as friendly."

"I think this is a terrible thing and I am really mad," says another. "I'm moving into a smaller place and I've had to sell some of my things — I had to get rid of my lovely dining room set. I moved in less than two years ago."

"I liked the apartment, I was satisfied, and I thought, this is it. And now here I am," she says bitterly, "packing up again."

Championship held last Saturday in Marblehead. Seikunas, who was a co-captain of last year's Andover High School State Championship Gymnastics team, turned in the best performance of his career, scoring 49.0 in compulsory routines and 47.8 in his optional routines.

Water consumption in Andover has reached new records and is averaging almost 500,000 gallons beyond the safe daily yield, according to Public Works Director Robert McQuade.

Andover can take pride in another portion of developing the American scene. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Willima J. Orr, 97 Shawsheen Road, a newspaper clipping reveals that the potato was grown in American soil for the first time here in Andover in 1718.

The long-awaited drop-in center is to open at the Central Fire Station on Park street. The facility will be available to all high school students from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday nights and on Sunday 1 to 4:30 p.m. The drop-in center was established under the direction of ACT (Andover Community Together), a council to study the various problems involving the young people and adults of the community.

DRIVE UP YOUR NET WORTH IN A RABBIT.

Part of Rabbit appreciation is its depreciation. Take the '78 Rabbit. It's actually increased in book value through the years. That's performance unmatched by the '78 Toyota Corona, Peugeot 504 and Cadillac El Dorado.

Of course, you don't have to get rid of your Rabbit to appreciate its value. While you own it you can enjoy surprising spaciousness, perky acceleration (0 to 50 mph in 8.3 seconds), and remarkable braking (50 to 0 mph in under 4 seconds).

And when the day finally comes to take your Rabbit to market, if you've taken good care of it, chances are it will take good care of you.

That's why many people think the Rabbit isn't just a car but an excellent investment vehicle.

TO: all persons interested in Ballardvale Lithia Spring Water Company, a dissolved New Jersey corporation, and the heirs, devisees or legal representatives of James B. Robinson, former President and stockholder of said corporation; and John O. Loring, former Treasurer and stockholder of said corporation, and of Joseph W. Robinson, former Clerk and stockholder of said corporation, all late of North Andover, in the County of Essex, and said Commonwealth:

Whereas a bill of complaint has been begun against you in our Land Court, by T.D.J. Development Corporation, a Massachusetts corporation having an usual place of business in Andover, Essex County, and said Commonwealth;

WE COMMAND YOU, if you intend to make any defense, that on the first Monday of September next, which Monday is September 1, 1980 the return day of this subpoena, or within such further time as the law allows, you do cause your written appearance to be entered and your written answer or other lawful pleading to be filed in the office of the recorder of said court at Boston in the County of Suffolk, and further that you defend against said suit according to law, if you intend to make any defense, and that you do and receive what the court shall order adjudge and decree therein.

Hereof fail not, at your peril, as otherwise said suit may be adjudged, and orders and decrees entered therein, in your absence.

The plaintiff represents that it is the owner of that certain parcel of land situated in Andover, Essex County, and said Commonwealth, on Woburn Street, and more particularly described in a deed to the plaintiff from Andrew Circle Realty Trust, dated March 12, 1980, and recorded with Essex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds, in Book 1425, Page 142; and further represents that in the chain of title, it appears that Ballardvale Lithia Spring Water Company, a New Jersey corporation, was the record owner of said property and there is no deed from said corporation, to Ballardvale Springs Company, a Massachusetts corporation, from which corporation by mesne conveyances the plaintiff acquired its title; and further represents that said defendant New Jersey corporation was dissolved on December 30, 1905 and that Ballardvale Springs Company, the Massachusetts corporation, was incorporated on December 16, 1905, and in its Articles of Organization appears that stock was issued for "Two parcels of land containing springs and buildings in the township of Andover, Mass., in all about 50 acres..."; and further represents that James B. Robinson and John O. Loring had been officers and directors of both said corporations and that the Massachusetts corporation had acquired title by merger; and further represents that the plaintiff and its predecessors in title have maintained possession and control of the locus paying real estate taxes thereon for more than 20 years; and further represents that because of the absence of a deed between the corporations, a cloud of suspicion is cast upon the title to the locus; and the plaintiff prays that the Court adjudge and order that the plaintiff holds its title free from any claims of the defendants, and it appearing to the Court upon the suggestion of the plaintiff that the usual process cannot be served on some of the defendants, it is ORDERED that notice be given by publishing a copy of this order once a week for three successive weeks in the Andover Townsman, a newspaper published in the County of Essex, the last publication to be at least one month before the first Monday of September next.

Real Estate
By DOUGLAS N. HOWE
REALTOR

YOU AND YOUR AGENT

The quickest — and by far the easiest — method of selecting a home is simply knowing all that's available on the market. And you won't get that information by charging around from one "house for sale" sign to another. Your best course is to seek help from a REALTOR. Preferably, one who knows — and is active in — the neighborhood you're interested in.

Before you sit down with your REALTOR, determine your family's needs; number of bedrooms and baths, storage needs, room for future expansion, recreation facilities, etc. If you're willing to compromise on any requirements, say so. Be flexible about architecture, and consider looking at a variety of home styles. And be particular about the location of the house. It's the one thing you'll never be able to remodel.

Final advice: Be candid about your finances and what you can afford. This information will come out sooner or later and you'll be wasting your time by looking at houses that are beyond your means.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

SELLING YOUR HOME?

In today's sophisticated and competitive market place, people shop for a home in the same manner they shop for food, an automobile or clothing-by comparison. When your home is shown to a prospective buyer you deserve to have it presented properly by someone thoroughly knowledgeable of its benefits, able to point out its best features. There is a big difference between showing a house and SELLING a home.

At The Norwood Group, one of our professional Realtors will be present at every showing. Our job is to show your home in its best light. After the showing we take the responsibility of securing your property. We'll let you know the results of the visit. Basically, it boils down to the fact that we care about doing the very best we can for our client — YOU.

When you decide to sell your home take a few minutes to discuss your needs with us. We will be happy to explain the additional benefits of listing your home with The Norwoods.

Exciting Contemporary by quality builder, overlooking magnificent panoramic view of the countryside. Many energy saving features. Buy now and select your own colors, carpeting and appliances.

First Female Police Officer Named

The appointments to the Police Department of Andover's first female police officer and a reserve officer who was involved in a shoot-out with a bank robber last week were approved by the selectmen Monday night.

New officers Barbara Conley and William MacKenzie will attend the police academy beginning July 31 before reporting for duty as patrolmen.

The selectmen commended MacKenzie for his actions during a hold-up at the Lawrence Savings Bank in Shawsheen Square last Friday evening. MacKenzie, who was on duty as a part-time reserve officer, exchanged gunfire with one of three bank robbers. One robber was injured.

Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark welcomed Conley to the police force, noting that she "has the distinction of being the first female officer to serve full-time" in the department.

Among other appointments approved by the selectmen Monday night:

Martha J. Dares of 10 Torrence St. was appointed to the Conservation Commission. The town manager said Dares has had a long-standing interest in serving on the commission.

Carolyn Ehrman of 29 Lincoln Circle, a member of the Arts Council, was appointed to the Community Services Committee to fill the vacancy created by the departure of Charles Rancourt, whose term has expired.

Five members were also named to the new Community Watch Committee, formed to administer a $10,000 grant given to the town by an anonymous donor to help fight crime and vandalism in town.

Police Chief James Johnson was named to the committee, along with School Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert for a three-year term; the Rev. Reginald A. MacDonald for a three-year term; Pamela Mitchell, experienced in working with juvenile delinquents, for a two-year term; and Robert L. Merrill for a two-year term. One selectmen will be named to the committee at a later date.

Clark said the committee will eventually be broadened to include more community volunteers, and fewer town administrators.

Towne Deli It's Cool Cool!

These Dog Days are a drag . . . for everyone.

Humidity and heat spell lethargy for most but particularly for the woman in the kitchen. The continued hot spell is just not conducive to meal preparation, even salads. That is where Towne Deli comes in.

The lingo in vogue a while ago used the word cool to describe something very good. We can modestly say that Towne Deli is cool cool. Escape with the family to the refreshing air of our conditioned dining areas and enjoy our famous fare topped off with a frosty mug of beer or a glass of chilled wine. Guaranteed to make you forget the weather! If a few errant zephyrs are blowing our way, enjoy your meal under the umbrellas on our patio.

When you are ready to leave, look over the summer foods in our refrigerated cases and stock up your refrigerator with quick to prepare lunches that will whet even July's jaded appetites.

Yes, Towne Deli is cool cool. Come enjoy it with us.

Gas Co. Refund

Bay State Gas Company has announced that it began returning more than $3,000,000 to its customers on July 1 as a result of natural gas rate decisions by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

The money is being distributed as a credit reduction on monthly gas bills to all Bay State Gas customers in the Massachusetts communities served by the company.

A spokesman for the utility said that the typical residential gas heating customer will be refunded approximately $15.00 during the year. Refunds to non-heating customers will be approximately $3.50.
